Friday morning's session will be principally for business purposes. At one o'clock Friday afternoon an automobile trip has been arranged by Mrs. L. Dow Ott. The machines will start from convention headquarters, the Hotel Gettysburg at one o'clock and the visitors will be taken over the College and Seminary grounds, and through the cemetery, and to other points of interest about town. ## INSPECTORS NOT AGENTS

State Zoologist H. A. Surface, from his Harrisburg office says:

"We take this opportunity to say that no person connected with this office is an agent for any apparatus, insecticide, or material of any kind. The inspectors and demonstrators have especially been cautioned against acting as agents or offering for sale any kind of material, publications or wares, or buying fruits or produce for speculation, and also have no right to make any private charge for service or advice. Further, they are to pay their own expenses, and give their entire time to the work in which they are engaged by the State. Most of them understand this and are acting accordingly. One or two have been found acting as agents and were dropped from the pay roll of the State. If at any time any person representing himself as either a permanent or temporary assistant, inspector or demonstrator from this office should attempt to act as agent for any firm by selling any trees, apparatus or material, we request persons to help us in learning such facts by sending us notification at once.

"Such persons should be arrested as impostors and held until we can come and take such action as may result in stopping the questionable practice of rascals who misrepresent themselves as the agents or representatives of the State, generally for the purpose of securing some illegal gain. "All inspectors and demonstrators of this office are provided with signed certificates of appointment and personal credentials by which they can be known."

MANY TOURISTS HERE IN AUTOS

Couple here Thirteen Years ago on their Honeymoon Return to Spend a Week. Many Visitors of Prominence.

Fine Fall weather has resulted in a large number of automobile tourist parties coming to Gettysburg the past few days. News of the road between Gettysburg and New Oxford being repaired has served to increase traffic from that direction but the tourists express no little displeasure over the portions of these roads as yet uncompleted.

Mr. and Mrs. John Unger Jr. and three children of New York City, came here Tuesday by automobile for a week's stay. They are registered at the Eagle. Mr. and Mrs. Unger were here thirteen years ago on their wedding tour and are now here with their children to spend several days in and around Gettysburg.

MT. ST. MARY'S READY

Emmitsburg Oct. 16—Everything is in readiness for the big game here Thursday between Gettysburg and Mt. St. Mary's. This game was to be played Saturday but as the National Alumni Association of the Mount will hold the annual banquet here tonight, through the kindness of the Gettysburg management the date was changed for tomorrow in order that the large number of old "grads" who are here will have a chance to witness the game. The local squad is in good condition and is looking forward to a hard battle with their old rivals. Not much is known here of the strength of Gettysburg but past reputation of her teams has put the locals on edge and there is every reason to feel that a good game will be played. The last scrimmage took place Tuesday, only signal drill was indulged in today. Considerable time was also spent in punting and running back the kicks. The student body have been rehearsing cheers and songs all week and with the aid of a band hope to cheer their team on to victory. The game will start at three o'clock. The officials agreed upon will be J. Abner Saylor of Harvard, and Edward Sparrow of Mercersburg.

WILL CHANGE FOR SURE

News from many parts of the county tells of interest being taken in the coming Farmers' Day in Gettysburg. ## WOUND IS SERIOUS, SAY T. R. SURGEONS

There is Danger of Blood Poisoning.

IN CHICAGO HOSPITAL

Physicians Issue a Favorable Bulletin.

ASSAILANT PLEADS GUILTY

To Test Bullets to Ascertain if They Are Poisoned.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Colonel Roosevelt is in the Mercy hospital in this city under the observation of a corps of the most distinguished surgeons and physicians, awaiting whatever course nature may take in the bullet wound inflicted by John Schrank in Milwaukee.

The X-ray photographs have accurately located the bullet and its course, but the wound has not been probed, and for the present no attempt will be made to remove the bullet.

While Colonel Roosevelt's condition is hopeful, he is not out of the danger that always attends a gunshot wound should septic poisoning intervene. The surgeons now are waiting to see if blood poisoning develops. If the wound remains clean and heals naturally, then it will be up to Dr. Murphy and his associates in the case to decide whether to remove the bullet from the muscles of the chest wall or allow it to remain.

The doctors say that their distinguished patient must remain in the hospital for at least ten days.

Colonel Roosevelt's condition was found improved when the physicians made their examination of his wound. As a precautionary measure, tetanus anti-toxin was administered in a medium dose, and he was told he might eat what he desired. His breathing caused him less pain.

The bulletin of the surgeons reads: "Records show that his pulse is 86, his temperature 99.2, respiration is 18, that he has less pain in breathing than previously, that he has practically no cough, that there has been no bloody expectoration.

"We find him in magnificent physical condition due to his regular physical exercise, his habitual abstinence from tobacco and liquor. As a precautionary measure prophylactic dose of anti-tetanic serum has been given to guard against occurrence of lockjaw later.

"DR. J. B. MORPHY, "DR. ARTHUR DEAN BEVAN, "DR. SCURRY L. TERRELL." Colonel Roosevelt slept well and he has a good appetite.

Learning that the correspondents accompanying him on his speaking tour, who had left him after the assault in Milwaukee to file their articles, had rejoined him at the hospital, Colonel Roosevelt insisted that the editor of his physicians against communication with him be ignored for the time.

He received the newspaper men with an apology for not arising, jested with them about his condition and told them "I'll hurry up and get out of here, so that I can keep you busy again."

In opening the door to his room to admit the correspondents the heavy odor of heaps of flowers banked high in the ante-room flooded the colonel's apartment, and he inhaled deeply several times. The extra effort caused a little pain, however, and when the doors were shut again he instructed his nurse to present part of the flowers to other patients in the hospital. This was done.

The doctors did not feel inclined to allow him to leave the hospital inside of ten days, so that they might have no break in their minute by minute watch for possible infection from the bullet.

Unofficially it was made known that the physicians do not consider it necessary to probe for or operate to remove the bullet. It lies, as shown by the X-ray photographs brought from Milwaukee by Dr. J. D. Janssen and corroborated by others taken in the Mercy hospital, not far from the breast bone, on the right side, and probably five inches below the collarbone. The missile did not get inside the ribs, but ploughed upward and inward for a distance of some five inches from where it entered.

The flesh along the course of the bullet showed no discoloration, and there appeared to the physicians no cause for concern from any feature.

Colonel Roosevelt was anxious to greet members of his family. The first he was to see was his daughter, Mrs. Alice Longworth, whose train was to arrive from Cincinnati in time for her to have dinner with her father. His concern all day was not for himself, but for those he believed were likely to be too fearful of his condition.

tion. Before Mrs. Longworth went into the colonel's apartments he was told she was without, and he called out to her to "come on in." She was closeted with him for some time.

He read all of the hundreds of telegrams that poured into the hospital, and was particularly delighted with several from men of note he met while abroad.

All of Colonel Roosevelt's speaking dates were canceled, save the one at Louisville, Ky. That city former Senator Albert Beveridge of Indiana, was sent after a conference with the candidate, with a message the colonel insisted he read to his friends there.

Colonel Roosevelt talked little of the assault. Most of that discussion was in jest with those who called on him. When the physicians turned back the covers of his bed the better to examine his wound, Colonel Roosevelt exclaimed, forgetful of his condition: "Don't lose my place, doctor, don't lose my place!"

He referred to a book the physician had laid to one side, and which contained the essays of Macaulay, and which had furnished him an interested hour.

He asked seriously how his wound looked, and leaned his head forward from his half-sitting posture and surveyed it himself.

"That doesn't look bad, doctor," he said. "What do you think?"

"That, as it is, doesn't bother us," replied Dr. Murphy, nodding to his fellows, Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan and Dr. Terrell, who accompanied him, said, "It's what you do to it."

The patient raised his eyebrows interrogatively and was informed that the doctors, by way of precaution, that he would better see no one, so that the rest would remove further any possibility of a setback. He was disappointed for a few minutes, but the examination being over and a pint of buttermilk having been ordered, he reached again for his book and smiled "All right."

An hour's sleep kept up his good spirits and he said it had been the most refreshing rest he had enjoyed for a week.

"This'll give me a good rest up, anyway," he said, "and if I must stay here I suppose I might as well make the most of it."

ASSAILANT PLEADS GUILTY

Schrank Calmly Hears Charge of Attempted Murder.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 16.—John Schrank, Colonel Roosevelt's assailant, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of attempted murder when he had a preliminary arraignment before Judge M. E. Neelen in the district court.

Judge Neelen held Schrank to the criminal court for trial under bonds of $7500. Tentatively the date for trial was set for the November term.

Judge Neelen immediately after the arraignment ordered Professor E. W. Somer, head of the chemical department of Marquette university, to make a chemical test of the bullets remaining in the would-be slayer's revolver.

Judge Neelen announced that this action was taken to determine immediately if the bullet which entered Colonel Roosevelt's body had been poisoned. The judge said that his action was prompted by memories of the bullet which killed President McKinley and also by a personal desire to give the surgeons at Chicago every possible aid.

State's Attorney Zabel definitely announced that Schrank would not be brought to trial until after the election on Nov. 5. He said the trial would be opened some time between Nov. 11 and 15.

Mr. Zabel, who is said to be the only Socialist state's attorney in the country, gave three reasons for his decision.

He said, first, that it was only reasonable to await the result of Colonel Roosevelt's injury; second, he had no desire to crowd the defendant, and third, gave it as his opinion that it would be unwise to call the case during the final struggle in the presidential campaign.

"If Schrank is insane," said Mr. Zabel, "it seems that there is method in his madness when he selects for the scene of his crime a state where there is no capital punishment."

"Also, I am informed in messages from New York that there has been no insanity in Schrank's family as far as can be traced. In addition the man presents none of the usual surface indications of insanity."

Schrank looked little the worse for a night spent in a cell at the central station reposing on a plank for a bed. He called for a cup of coffee and something to eat. He was given a sandwich, which he ate, though he said his appetite was not very keen.

"How do you feel, Schrank?" was asked the prisoner, as he sat in his cell.

"Oh, pretty well, considering everything," he answered. "I'm not used to sleeping on a bed quite so 'soft' as this one," he added, pointing to the wide board on which he was sitting.

The assassin still sticks to his story that the shooting was the result of a vision which came to him some time ago.

Asked as to whether it was his desire to kill the former president, Schrank said it was not.

Schrank is a single man and says

Wounded Husband.

he had but one sweetheart. She was Emily Ziegler, who, he said, lost her life in the disaster which befell the steamer General Slocum in New York a number of years ago.

Schrank appeared unperturbed over the consequences awaiting him. He talked rationally. Asked as to his politics, he said he usually voted the Democratic ticket, but that sometimes he voted as a Republican.

Much interest centers in the chemical tests of the bullets, which were started by Professor Sommer. Professor Sommer said that the result would not be known for some time.

Schrank, when questioned on this point, denied emphatically that he had used poisoned bullets and asserted with a confident air that the chemical tests would reveal nothing of this nature.

Ouchy, Switzerland, Oct. 16.—A preliminary peace treaty between Turkey and Italy has been signed by the delegates of the two countries.

The signing of the peace pact may have a favorable effect on the Balkan situation, as it has been expected that Italy would join forces with the Balkan states in the war against Turkey if the latter did not speedily sign the treaty, and this was looked upon as possibly threatening to involve the other European powers.

BOB'S RACE FOR LIFE

ALL SPRINT RECORDS BROKEN
 BY YOUNG MR. DINKINS.

According to the Old Codger, He Traveled Fast, but the "Snake" Was a Close Second When He Reached Home.

The dry goods box and nail keg brigade were loading luxuriously in the sunshine that was shedding warmth and lassitude on the platform in front of the village emporium, postoffice, etc.
 They were engaged, as usual, in the pleasant and unperilous business of assassinating time.

"Snakes'll be comin' out uv th' woods, soon," yawned a young yap who was expending first-class farm-hand energy in aimlessly whittling a hickory stick.

"Did any uv you-all ever heer uv Bob Dinkins' race fer life 'fore his pap left Troublesome Bottoms an' went west?" inquired an old codger, with a small gray goatee.

It seemed that no one had heard of it, so the old codger proceeded to narrate:

"I reckon' Bob run 'bout a mile in th' same length uv time t'would take to wind a watch. There wuz a heap uv black snakes that spring. 'Peared that durin' th' winter all th' snakes in th' woods had turned black. Bob wuz skeered uv snakes, an', nacherly, wuz in a highly nervous state most uv th' time. He imagined ev'ry thing he saw movin' was a snake.

"Well, Bob, he took th' horses out to th' pasture one Sunday mornin', pulled th' halter off uv th' one he wuz leadin', slung it over his shoulder, and started back to th' barn. He hadn't gone fer when he happened to glance behin' him.

"Wow! A long black thing wuz a-slidin' right up to his heels! He let out a whoop lack a Soo Indian an' struck out down th' path, jes' fairly splittin' th' wind wide open.

"When he'd run 'bout 500 yards he took a quick squint over his shoulders to see if he'd got away from it.
 He hadn't. Therer it wuz, spinnin' right along after him. Bob let out more yells an' ran lack a dawg after a rabbit. He done his best to git away from th' thing that wuz pursuin', but he couldn't gain an inch on it.
 He wuz barefooted, too, an' ev'ry minit he expected to feel it nab him by th' heel.

"His hat flew off an' his hair stood on end. His daddy an' mammy run out to meet him, an' when he come rippin' into th' stable lot, hollerin', mammy drapt lack she'd been shot, clean into a dead faint. She thought it wuz all over with her darlin' son.

"Bob went tearin' round th' lot lack a colt shet away from its ma, stompin' an' kickin' an' yellin' fer 'em to kill it. His daddy gazed at him, powerless lack, till he saw what wuz th' matter.
 Then he got a healthy piece of hoop-pole an' went for his heroic son."

"Th' snake had hung its teeth in his breeches leg, I s'pose," asked a fellow with a pair of green goggles.
 "Snake!" snorted the old codger. "I didn't say twas a snake, did I?"

"But it was a snake that wuz after him, wuzn't it?" demanded a gawky chap who had his mouth open.

"Not on yer sweet life," replied the old codger. "It wuz nuthin' but th' long, black halter stop. It had slipt off his shoulder an' wuz draggin' in th' path behin' him. Th' young gal-loot saw it an' thought it was a snake!"—New York Times.

Betrayed by His Collar.

References which appeared satisfactory had been placed in the hands of the renting agent, who was on the point of declaring them unnecessary owing to the general appearance of the applicants, when suddenly he exclaimed: "By the way, I'm sorry, but I don't believe I can let you have that flat after all. It's been spoken for."

When the possible tenants had departed indignantly the agent said: "De you know what made me change my mind so suddenly? It was their dog's collar. In lifting the little fellow to get him I read the inscription on his collar, and saw it was engraved with four different addresses, all of which had been put on since last tax day.
 Three of the addresses had been scratched out. If those folk had secured my flat another would have been scratched out and a fifth added by day after tomorrow. A dog's collar marked up like that shows that his owners don't stay in one place long enough to get a new plate on his collar between moves, and I don't care to rent to transients."

Power of the Mind.

Some people give up all mental effort as soon as they get sick or afflicted, but there are some minds that no pain or suffering can subdue. The most powerful warship afloat, which was launched in the Thames in England last February, was built by a man who can neither sit nor walk.
 The most famous of our racing yacht designers is blind, but he could build a boat that was good enough to defend the America cup year after year.

The head of the Thames Iron Works company that built the Thunderer is a victim of chronic rheumatism and passes his days lying on a trundle bed upon which he is wheeled all over the immense works and oversees everything that is going forward. He knows every foreman in the shops and has the design of every piece of machinery by heart, and they point to him as a wonderful example of the truth of the old adage,
 "The eye of a master can do more work than a thousand hands."

Was Short.

Barber—Hair cut, sir?
 Customer—Yes, please.
 Barber—Short?
 Customer (feeling in his pockets)—
 Well, I am a little. Will it do if I pay you Saturday?—London Telegraph.

What He Had Done.

"What have you ever done for me?" complained the young man whose father had chided him for his inability to get ahead.
 "Well, I kept your mother from naming you Percy or Clarence."

TAKING NO CHANCES.

"Is Mrs. Tracey in?" the caller asked.

The hired girl looked her over with suspicion.

"Are you an agent for the rough-dry laundry?"

"No, indeed."

"You ain't introducing any foolish labor-saving patents for the kitchen, are you?"

"No."

"The reason I ask," the girl explained, "is that a lady I let in yesterday turned out to be selling electric wringers, and I heard her tell Mrs.
 Tracey that half the society women of the Oranges had bought her machines and let their help go. But if you're just a plain caller you can come in."

Due Regard for Appearances.

Caller—I understand there are several vacancies in your working staff, and I should like a job as solicitor.

President of Life Insurance Company—Beggins your pardon for your seeming rudeness, young man, you are too skinny and cadaverous to be a good walking advertisement for an institution like ours. Good morning.

Founding a Career.

"That was a great speech you made," said the enthusiastic friend.
 "Do you think it will help me?"
 asked Senator Sorghum.

"Unquestionably. It may not have much influence in public affairs, but it ought to get you an engagement with any lecture bureau."

Presocuity.

"Mamma, I think Henry is going to be a linguist."

"Why, dear?"

"I have just been listening to him, and in less than three minutes he used five different kinds of slang."

FLEET SAILS TO SEA

President Taft and Secretary Meyer Review Great Armada.

New York, Oct. 16.—The great armada of battleships stretching for fifteen miles up the Hudson river have weighed anchor preparatory to steaming out to sea in review before President Taft.

When the last of the twenty-one gun salutes died away it ended the greatest mobilization in the history of the American navy.

President Taft, who spent the night aboard the yacht Mayflower, was joined by Secretary of the Navy Meyer after which the Mayflower, followed by the Dolphin and the Nashville, left her anchorage and proceeded to a point near the Statue of Liberty. From this vantage point the president witnessed the great procession of fighting ships.

The line was led by the flagship Connecticut, with Rear Admiral Osterhaus, fleet commander, aboard. Followed then the battleships, then the cruisers, then the torpedo boats, destroyers and other smaller craft of the fleet, 127 in all.

Tens of thousands of persons gathered to watch the departure from vantage points from the Battery to Spuy-ten Duyvil. Battery Park was black with humanity and thousands stood upon the Palisades on the New Jersey side.

All traffic on the Hudson river and in the upper New York harbor was halted for three hours for the review.

35,000 Postmasters in Classified List.
 New York, Oct. 16.—President Taft, on board the Mayflower off the Statue of Liberty, signed an executive order putting 35,000 fourth class postmasters in the classified service. The execution of this order will put every fourth class postmaster in the United States under the civil service, 25,000 having previously been put in the classified list by the president.
